The feature of the brokerage news reported yesterday was the great number of sales in the Unionport section of The Brons. These are attributed to the fact that the Interborough about three weeks ago began laying tracks for a trolley extension in 177th street, or Tremont avenue, from the West Farms Plaza to Throgg's Neck. The extension will comprise about two miles, of which the easterly half has already been finished. The new trolley will enable passengers to travel from the Unionport and Throgg's Neck sections to lower Manhaltan and to Brocklyn for eight cents by transferring to the subway at West Farms.
